

Kevin Docherty

410.962.1030 x1331
kdocherty@browngold.com

Profile

Kevin Docherty joined Brown Goldstein & Levy in September 2013. He represents clients in a wide variety of civil and criminal matters in both federal and state courts. Kevin's civil practice includes employment, personal injury, custody and child support, and disability rights litigation. Kevin also represents businesses in complex commercial matters, including cases involving RICO and ERISA, and regulatory disputes with government agencies.

Kevin was chosen for inclusion on the 2018 Super Lawyers' Maryland Rising Stars list for those lawyers who exhibit excellence in practice and are either 40 years old or younger or in practice for ten years or less. Only 2.5 percent of the attorneys in Maryland are named to the Rising Stars list each year.

Prior to joining the firm as an associate, Kevin clerked for the Honorable William M. Nickerson on the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland.

During law school, Kevin worked as a paralegal at Brown, Goldstein & Levy. He also interned at the Community Law Center, where he assisted with CLC's representation of community organizations throughout Baltimore City.

Before attending law school, Kevin taught middle school social studies in the Baltimore City Public Schools.

Education

- University of Maryland Francis King Carey School of Law, J.D., cum laude, 2012
- Eastern Mennonite University, B.A., magna cum laude, 2005

Bar Admissions

- Maryland

Honors

- Maryland Rising Stars, 2017-2018

Memberships

- Federal Bar Association, Maryland Chapter, Officer, Young Lawyers Rep

Media

- January 9, 2014, The Washington Post, "Brown lawyers say his inclusion in a fundraising lawsuit was a 'publicity stunt.'" Andy Levy and Kevin Docherty represented Linda Lamone, State Administrator, Maryland State Board of Elections, in a lawsuit over guidance issued by the State Board of Elections regarding fundraising during Maryland's General Assembly session.

