Stuart Simms Honored by Baltimore Child Abuse Center with its first Founder's Award

Stu Simms has been awarded Baltimore Child Abuse Center's first Founder's Award, recognizing his efforts in co-founding the organization in 1987. His vision, leadership, and advocacy insured that child victims of sexual abuse in Baltimore would be treated with respect, dignity, and kindness.

About Baltimore Child Abuse Center

BCAC is a not for profit agency forged in collaboration to provide better outcomes and responses for children and family dealing with child abuse. Providing services for law enforcement, social services, and prosecutors, BCAC investigates more than 1,000 cases of child sex abuse each year.
